

Weekend Farmer (Part time, self-employed)

Jamie's Farm, Bath

Hill House Farm, Ditteridge, Box, Nr Bath SN13 8QA

Jamie's Farm is a charity that supports young people by combining therapeutic work, farming, and purposeful activities to help them thrive. Through residential visits to our working farms, we provide a nurturing environment where young people can reflect, build confidence, and develop the resilience they need to overcome personal challenges.

Position Summary

Jamie's Farm is seeking a Weekend Farmer to support with livestock checks and feeding across both our Hill House and neighbouring Lower Shockerwick farms. You'll work independently and play a key role in maintaining our high standards and contributing to a progressive farming business focused on improving systems and developing regenerative farming practices.

Main responsibilities:

- Daily livestock checks to ensure the health and welfare of cattle, sheep, pigs, horses, and hens
- Feeding hay, silage, and concentrates to livestock
- Administering treatments as required
- Driving farm vehicles to efficiently carry out tasks

Experience & Skills:

- Previous farming experience (essential)
- Driving licence (essential)
- Highly reliable and responsible, with an ability to work flexibly, independently and overcome problems proactively
- Good communication skills to feedback any issues to the farming team

Work pattern & benefits:

- Self-employed, flexible part-time hours – equivalent to 4 days per month over weekends
- £12.50-£15.00 per hour dependent on experience
- A beautiful working environment
- Opportunity to be part of a progressive farming business focused on improving systems and developing regenerative farming practices
